MANY ENJOYED JUNIOR PROM LAST NIGHT

Ball Room of Union Beautifully Decorated

334 PRESENT

Programs and Favours Have Never Been Equalled

Last night the labors of the Junior Prom Committee terminated successfully when Freddie Gross's orchestra played the familiar strains of the National Anthem. The ballroom of the Union was crowded, but not to much so and the lucky possessors of pasteboards spent an evening which will be long remembered.

The decorative scheme was one which will be an ideal for future committees to aim at. The snow white ceiling of the ballroom reflected the coloured lights concealed in the troughs along the side. The lights were shaded marvelously wrought shades suggestive of roosters and laughing puppies. These shades too were on the lights in the halls and on the stair-cases. Floating mystically on high were balloons of various shapes and colours.

In the four corners of the room were cosy cottages with roses climbing up the side and over the roof. Above the cottage in the North East corner was "old man moon" peaking coquettishly over the shoulder of an attractive maiden painted in black and white.

The orchestra was situated in a palm-covered booth in the centre of the Sherbrooke St. side.

Covering the walls on the landings and stair-cases were the various banners of the faculties. The chandeliers were draped with red and white ribbons presenting a colorful appearance.

These decorations were carried out too in the various sitting-out rooms. Mention must be made of the American beauty roses which covered the trellises in all the rooms and in the hallways.

The cafeteria too was decorated in red and white with carnations of red and white on the tables. Pierre was on hand and did himself justice was on hand an ddid himself justice. Amidst these delightful surroundings supper was served.

The Menu:—

Junior Prom.

Fruit Cocktail Maraschino
Chicken Patties
Finger Roll
Petite Fours Pastry
Meringue Glace
Coffee
Mints Salted Almonds
Punch or Lemonade during dancing
Flowers and Candlesticks included.

Small red penants were given as favours with "Prom 27" worked on them.

The guests were received by Sir Arthur and Lady Currie Col. and Mrs. Bovey, Miss Huribat, Professor and Mrs. Carruthers, Dr. and Mrs. James Goodall, Miss Leona Gray of R. V. C. and Mr. Jas. V. Russel of the Prom committee.

Those present were:—

PLAYERS' CLUB PROGRESSING IN REHEARSALS

Stage in Biological Building Improved

THREE PLAYS

Play of George Bernard Shaw To be Given

Advance notice give evidence of an extremely successful presentation of the forthcoming three plays of the Players Club. "The man in the stall" looks good and "All Gummed up" certainly does not appear to be living up to its name.

The name of M. Bisson, taking the part of the Dark Lady, was inadvertently omitted from the recently-publised cast of the "Dark Lady of the Sonnets". This, one of George Bernard Shaw's presentations, is a satirical costume play in which Shakespeare; Queen Elizabeth, The Dark Lady and the Beefeater enter.

The stage in the Biological Building where the plays will be given, has been raised and improved. The sets are all designed and the experts are working on the scenery and electric fittings.

Prospects indeed appear very bright and the Players Club state that the forthcoming programme is way ahead of the last one.

GRADUATE OF P. C. NOW IN MONTREAL

E. Leslie Pidgeon, O.D., Has Deep Interest in McGill

After having occupied pulpits in both Vancouver and Winnipeg, the Rev. E. Leslie Pidgeon, D.D. a graduate of the Presbyterian College and a native of Quebec province, has now taken over the pastorate of Erskine United Church, Montreal. Dr. Pidgeon has a very warm spot in his heart for Old McGill, where he spent several profitable years and he has a deep interest in the students of the present generation.

At the present time Dr. Pidgeon is giving a series of Sunday evening addresses on the "Laws of Character Development"; his topic for to-morrow night is of special significance for young men and women, as it deals with the physical laws of habit. The psysical changes that accompany the forming of habits, how these conditions may be broken down and new habits formed and other phases of the same subject will also be dealt with. All in all, the address should have a very direct appeal to all students, and it is understood that McGill men and women will be cordially welcomed.

BALMY BEACH AND TRI-COLOUR PLAY

Semi-finals of Dominion Championships

The Tri-colour senior squad supported by many rooters is in Toronto to-day in its quest for a fourth straight Dominion title, meeting Balmy Beach, senior O. R. F. U. champions, this afternoon, in the semi-final match for premier Canadian rugby honours. The winners will play-off with the Ottawa Senators, Big Four leaders next week.

Queen's is favoured to win and make their record twenty-six consecutive victories. However the Beachers made a great showing against the champions last year, and with a considerably strengthened line should stand a good chance against the Kingstonians.

The Beach halves, Cawkell, Ponton and Robertson the punter will be up against the famous Tri-colour backfield stars, Leadley, Batstone, Chantler and Voss. Red McKelvey has not been in good shape lately and it is not certain that he will play through the contest.

The Late Queen Alexandra

The University joins the Empire in mourning the loss of the Queen Mother.

ALL EMPIRE JOINS WITH THE ROYAL FAMILY IN MOURNING DEATH OF QUEEN ALEXANDRA

Today four hundred million souls are mourning the death of a beloved Queen Mother. Flags are being flown at half mast and social and state functions have been called off or postponed until after the funeral which will take place in about two weeks. A memorial service for the late Queen Alexandra will be held in Christ Church Cathedral on the day on which the funeral takes place but until that time no central memorial service will be held.

The official bulletin announcing the death at Sandrington today of the Queen said:

"Her Majesty, Queen Alexandra, passed away peacefully at 5.25 p. m. today. The King, Queen and members of the Royal Family were present.

(Signed) "F. I. Williams, Sir Thomas Horder."

Almost immediately the evening papers appeared on the streets carrying the news to the throngs hurrying homeward from their days labours. The great bell of St. Pauls which is only used on the death of Royalty, tolled for an hour from 8 to 9— last night. The last time Londoners heard this mournful sound was on the occasion of the death of King Edward.

The Queen Mother passed to rest amid the peaceful surroundings of Rural England and among the people she loved so well. For hours the people of Sandrington had waited before the Royal residence, hoping for news of improvement in the Queen's condition.

All the foreign ambassadors and ministers were notified immediately of the Queen's death and they sent messages of condolence to the Royal mourners.

There is no modern precedent for the funeral of a mother of a reigning British monarch. It is expected however that the body will be brought in state to London where it will lie until the funeral. The body will then be taken to Windsor and placed in the Royal vault beside King Edward in St. Georges Chapel. This has been the burial place of the Royal Family for the past 150 years.

FORTNIGHTLY GREETED WITH ENTHUSIASM

Single Copy Sale Was a Heavy One

EDITORS GRATIFIED

Few Still to be had at Union, Miss Poole's, Book Room and Burton's

Received with enthusiasm everywhere the new McGill Fortnightly Review yesterday appeared upon the campus at about 2 o'clock and within an hour practically every subscriber had received his or her copy. In the Arts Building 50 copies were placed on sale and within a few minutes "Bill"Gentleman had sold out completely. At the Union the demand was not so heavy and there are still a few copies there today to be had.

The Review elicted favorable comment everywhere it was stated last night. Neatly made up it was conceded to be a good start and hope was expressed that the editors would continue to keep the standard high and that the sheet would be as carefully set out as was the first issue.

"We are greatly gratified with the splendid reception accorded our venture," the editors stated last night. "We hope that the support given it will continue. We feel that we have established a worthy vehicle and will do our best to maintain a high standard. We hope to see every issue of the Review a distinct improvement on the previous issue and shall do our best to achieve this."

The sale of the paper will continue. Those who have not subscribed can still do so as canvasers will continue their activities in the various faculties. Those who want single copies it was stated can obtain some either at the Union, Miss Poole's, the Montreal Book Room or Burton's Limited.

Those who have subscribed and who have not received the first issue are requested to telephone Uptown 4333 and a copy will be duly forwarded, the editors state.

Subscriptions will continue to sell at $1, and any person who takes one out will be given the back number. If the back number is not desired the subscription will sell at 90 cents.

The subscription list is well over the two hundred mark and only 100 more are required to assure the complete success of the venture which is already, it is stated on a firm footing.

PHYSICAL CLUB AND SIGMA X I MET YESTERDAY

"Two Methods of Measuring Very Short Time Intervals" Discussed

PROF. HEYMANS

Use of Kathode Ray Oscillograph and Lichtenberg Figure

"Two Methods of Measuring Very Short Time Intervals" was the interesting subject ably dealt with by Prof. Paul Heymans at the joint meeting of the McGill Physical Society and the Sigma Xi yesterday afternoon at 5 p.m. in the Macdonald Physics Building. Prof. Heymans a Belgian by birth came to the United States after the war and is at present engaged in research work in Physics and various branches of engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The first question which arises is "What do we mean by a very short time interval?" In answer to this Prof. Heymans stated that short time intervals extended from a millionth of a second to a millionth of a second i.e. from a microsecond to a micro-microsecond.

The first method employs the Kathode Ray Oscillograph and the second method makes use of Lichtenberg's figures.

A mechanical oscillograph will measure fairly short intervals of time but owing to high inertial will not respond to high frequency disturbances.

In the Kathode Ray Oscillograph we have a vacuum tube containing a kathode and an anode in the latter of which is a small hole. A stream of electrons will pass through this hole in he anode. A photographic plate is placed in the path of the electrons which give a spot upon the plate. If the plate is moved across the path of the electrons they will give a line upon it. If the electrons are subjected to an electric field in a plane perpendicular to the direction in which the electrons are passing a deflection is recorded on the moving plate which will depend upon the velocity of the electrons, the strength of the field of the length of the deflection gives the length of time of the passage of the field. If the photographic plate is kept at rest and an alternating current is passed the stream of electrons will oscillate. If now we move the plate it will be found that, provided the frequency of oscillation is not too great and the rate of motion of the photographic plate is great enough a sinusoidal curve is obtained. However the necessary motion of the plate is to great to be easily obtained.

If therefore, for this mechanical motion, one coil be substituted the stream of electrons may be made to sweep across the plate. If, now,

FAST ST. MIKE'S RUGBY TEAM TAKES COUNT OF McGILL'S INTERMEDIATES; SCORE 18-4

Torontonians Had Edge All the Way—Game Played on Fast Gridiron—Fifteen Hundred Present—First Game for Intermediate Intercollegiate Championship — St. Mike's Scored Three Touches—Taylor Kicked Drop for McGill.

(Special to McGill Daily)

Varsity Stadium, Toronto, Nov. 20 —St. Michael's College, of the University of Toronto, defeated the McGill Intermediate Rugby team here to-day by an 18-4 score. The game was a good exhibition of football, but the strong St. Mikes aggregation had the edge throughout, using the wind to great advantage. The Gridiron was fast, and fifteen hundred people turned out to witness the first game for the Intermediate Intercollegiate Championship.

The line-up:

St. Mikes.	McGill
Flying Wing
Lowry	Gorrie
Half
LeBel	Grassick
O'Brien	Taylor
McGraw	Arnold
Quarter
McGahey	Eadie
Snap
Watson	Mellen
Insides
Haffey	Petch
Callahan	Carson

Dore	O'Meara
Sheehey	Adams
Outsider
McKeon	Consiglio
Sheehey	Chisholm
Subs.
Flahiff	Dolton
O'Donnell	Davis
Donohue	Bray
	Altimas
	Pugh

First Quarter

St. Mikes kick off and continue kicking on first down. O'Brien scores touch for St. Mikes on second play of game. Lowery converts. Taylor kicks a drop for McGill on next play. St. Mikes 6, McGill 3. LeBel runs 45 yards for touch which Lowry again converts. Pugh on for Adams. Taylor makes thirty-five yards gain around end. Consiglio was penalized. Quarter time. Score—St. Mikes 12, McGill 3.

Second Quarter

McGill holding better, Taylor playing well, he recovers his own kick for thirty yards gain. Lowry does the same thing. St. Mikes penalized for "no-fair" catch. McGill tackles nail St. Mikes after every catch. Callaghan plunges for yards. Taylor kicks for a rouge from thirty-five yards out. Donohue on for Haffey. Half Time score, St. Mikes 13, McGill 4.

Third Quarter

Taylor kicked to O'Brien, who ran back 20 yards. St. Mikes kicked to Grassick. On first down McGill fumbled but recovered nicely. Taylor kicked to LeBel, who ran back 30 yards. Lowry kicked to Grassick who ran back 15 yards. Taylor punted to LeBel. St. Mikes made yards on line play. St. Mikes made yards third time, then were penalized for interference. They tried an outside kick which failed. Taylor kicked on McGill's ten yard line. Callihan bucked through McGill's line for yards again. Lowry kicked to Grassick, who was thrown for a rouge. McGill made yards on a fake kick. On an end run, McGill made yards again. St. Mikes penalized for off-side. McGill kicked to LeBel who passed to O'Brien. O'Brien was tackled on St. Mikes 15 yard line. St. Mikes 13, McGill 4.

Fourth Quarter

Lowry kicked. McGill bucked for yards but were penalized for interference. Taylor tried a drop which failed. St. Mikes ran back 25 yards. McGill gained possession on a fumble. Taylor failed to recover an on-side kick and Lowry kicked to Centre field. McGill bucked for yards. Taylor made a nice kick to O'Brien. Lowry kicked to Grassick, who fumbled, and St. Mikes got possession. Lowry kicked again. On a fumble, McGill lost ground but recovered. McGill made yards. McGill lost the ball on a fumble behind the line. O'Brien ran for a 20 yards gain. They made yards again on an end run. LeBel ran to within 2 yards of the goal line, and Sheehan bucked over for a touch.

Game Over. Final Score St. Mikes 18, McGill 4.

RUSH FOR TICKETS FOR DENTAL DANCE

Dental Graduates to be Present

The supply of tickets for the Dental Thrift Dance which is to take place Friday evening, the 27th November, in the Assembly Hall of the New Medical Bldg. was quickly exhausted by the hundred percent demands of the Undergraduate body when the tickets were placed on sale early yesterday, at a subsequent meeting of the Thrift Dance Committee it was decided to have a number more tickets printed to meet the demands of the Graduates, letters from whom are being received daily announcing their intentions to attend the dance, and surpassing expectations.

The committee also decided to endeavour to remove an erroneous impression as to the date of the dance which was published in the Daily due to the error of a member of the committee and which has created some confusion, the date of the dance is Friday evening, 27th of November and not November 26th, as published in last Wednesday's Daily.

The committee are busy now laying plans for the final arrangements which the large attendance should enable them to carry out without financial restrictions in the elaborate manner, which they have planed.

F. S. BROCKMAN TO ADDRESS Y. M. C. A.

McGill Students Invited to Attend Meeting

Mr. Fletcher S. Brockman, Senior Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. for China will visit Montreal on Monday, Nov. 23rd and will address two meetings under the auspices of the Montreal Y. M. C. A., a luncheon meeting for Business and Professional Men in the Windsor Hotel and a Supper Meeting in the Association Hall at 6.30 p.m.

Mr. Brockman, who is one of the outstanding men in the service of the Association, has been for over twenty-five years in touch with conditions in China and a close student of the recent Youth Movement which has had so great an influence upon the national life. He was in China last June when the difficult international situation arose, and his present addresses will deal largely with the events leading up to the crisis. He sails again for China on December 5th at the earnest request of the China National Council.

McGill students are specially invited to attend the Supper Meeting the cost of which will be thirty-five cents a plate.

"What and Where is God?" is the subject which will be dealt with by the Rev. G. A McIntosh at the Young Men's Forum, Central Y. M. C. A. 127 Drummond St. on Sunday next, Nov. 22nd at 3.15 p.m.

This is the second of the series of addresses and discussions on the elements of religion which are being held under the auspices of the Forum. The Forum Committee consists of Mr. J. M. MacDonnell, Chairman, R.E.G. Davis, Secretary, Harold J. Roast, Harry Burton, Prof. W. A. Gifford and Prof. W. D. Woodhead.

McGill students are specially invited to attend and to take part in the discussion.

There is all the difference in the world between a go-getter and a get-getter.

THE FORTNIGHTLY

With not unmixed feelings of chagrin and joy we note the appearance and much debated McGill Fortnightly Review. We are distinctly chagrined when we note in the Review, the wealth of material that might have found its way into the columns of the Daily, had not the financial embarrasment of the Students' Society made its Executive Council feel that it could not afford the outlay necessary to provide those who were to have been literary editors of the Daily with exactly what they wanted. That the Daily is shorn of much glory that might otherwise have attached to it, there is no doubt. At the same time the Daily views the advent of the new journal with joy, because we feel that a certain group, in the face of many difficulties, has given to the undergraduate body at large something that it wants and something that, through lack of funds, its Executive Council could not afford to give it. For conventional greetings so much.

For the first issue of the McGill Fortnightly Review itself, this. On the general appearance of their first issue, the editors of our new magazine are to be complimented. The Review looks well, and that is much. We are glad to note that there is an unusually small number of typographical and technical errors; in that particular regard we must consider our own selves considerably beaten. We are grateful for the opportunity afforded us of reading so excellent an article on our mysterious political situation by Eugene Forsey. We are pleased also, to have the pleasure of glancing at what Dr. Leacock has to tell us, through the medium of his instructive and occasionally genuinely humorous pen.

There are other sections of the paper, however, with which we cannot agree, and to which we take definite exception. In the first place, considering the fact that the Fortnightly Review bears the name of McGill, and has presumably derived the right to use that name from Corporation, we hold it in bad taste to openly damn with feint praise four or five times, a gentleman who is employed by Corporation as Officer of Instruction. Like the Review, we are in favour of freedom of speech, and freedom of the expression of private opinion. Yet we feel, that the peculiar way in which our society is constructed, makes it impossible, if we are to be 'decent', to curse a servant in front of his master, when we are that master's guest. More especially do we hold this wrong, when we consider that the servant in question has performed the duties of his office to everyone's satisfaction.

The Editors have committed another grave error when they attempt to condemn the Daily for criticising adversely a certain referee. Had they thought at all, before writing, they should have noted that the Daily never criticised the Referee in question. But suppose it had done so; then the Review is attempting to deny to the Daily, what it seeks for itself—that valued prize, the right of self-expression and free speech.

That the Review does not wholly approve of the new constitution of the Daily is also noted. Its remarks on the subjects are once again the result either of lack of thought or of ignorance. That on student controversial subjects, the Editorial Columns of the Daily must remain innocuous as a result of this piece of legislation is perfectly true. But this fact must be considered; The Students' Executive Council owns the McGill Daily; as owners it has a virtual right to dictate the Daily's editorial policy. In granting in writing, to the Daily, definite rejection of this power, the Council has acted in a particularly broad-minded manner. That as result of clause three, the Editorial Columns shall become columns of filler we deny. Surely there are greater things than student politics that are worthy of discussion in our Editorial Columns? The very existence of the Fortnightly Review at once admits this.

The McGill Fortnightly Review is a legitimate offspring of the McGill Daily. It is a child that a fond mother nursed carefully from infancy, and last year, put into its first pair of long trousers. When the first "longs" had served their term, the youth cried for another pair, but penury forced the parent to ask it once more to don its old knickers. The child rebelled, and left home; it raised money and bought itself what it wanted. It is missed at home, but in its new life we wish it every success. We hope only that by the next time it appears, it will haved cleared the greater part of the political dust from its trousers, and will appear as it promised us on leaving, "a literary journal".

Godd luck, Fortnightly Review.

DOINGS AT MAC

LINES

God saw the brilliant colours of the sun
Die, and the transformation of the world
That miracle of tender twilight, come—
The veil of darkness over all unfurled.
He took the grey from woods and skies
And melted it into your eyes.

He looked, and saw a pine tree straight and tall,
With gnarled strength and outstretched, bushy boughs,
Beside a tiny cottage, baffling all
The storms—a guardian to the little house
And God was gracious to impart
Its faithfulness into your heart.

God saw a star—it seemed the embodiment
Of all that heaven held so pure and true,
Noble and good. Then God an angel sent
To pluck this brighest from the studded blue.
And He this star, the heaven's best
Into your soul did put to rest.

Aggies Decide Insignia To Be Bronze Plague

The officers of the class were in session, the whole seventeen of them the only other member of the class was also present.

A severe vote of censure was first passed on the Treasurer for a serious defalcation in the accounts. His explanation that the missing 10 cents must have slipped into the lining of his trouser pocket was not accepted. The Assistant Vice-President proposed, and the Christian Science Representative seconded a motion that the offender should be tanked and the garment in question burnt. The motion was put to the vote and carried unanimously. The meeting was thereupon adjourned to allow the sentence to be put into effect.

On a resumption of business the Representative for the Suppression of Public Nuisances, (hereinafter called the R.F.T.S.O.P.N.), rose on a point of order to request that the proceedings of the last meeting, but three be considered null and void, as no official notice had been given, because he had been unable to attend. When a public apology from all concerned had been tendered he was prevailed upon to withdraw the motion.

The President then called upon the select committee of five, appointed to consider and report on the menu for the next monthly dinner, to promulgate their findings. The Dietetic Expert declared that in his opinion a diet of nuts and olive oil, containing as it did all the essential vitamines, would prolong life up to the age of two hundred years; he regreted however that the other members of the committee had not been of the same opinion, and the menu finally agreed upon was as follows:—pork and beans, buckwheat cakes and maple syrup, cigars and nuts. The Printing Expert was asked to submit estimates for the printing of this menu in gold, silver, and other precious metals.

The question was debated as to whether the Class adornment should consist of a bronze plaque six inches in diameter to be worn round the neck in a conspicuous position, or a nose ring to be attached to the right nostril. The Anatomical Representative declared that in the latter case the strain on the proboscis might have a serious effect on this alfactory organ, and might even end in a softening of the right side of the brain. After a somewhat lengthy discussion it was decided that the Plaque would be more suitable and that a leading artist be asked to design one, this design to be submitted at the next meeting.

On permission being given by the President to say a few words the R.F.T.S.O.P.N. proceeded to speak for an hour and a quarter on the need for solidarity among the members of the class. He outlined briefly the beneficent rules which had been formulated for their special benefit by the Seniors of the College, and furnished examples of the dire results of non compliance from the wealth of this experience.

It was considered that a vote of thanks to the R.F.T.S.O.P.N. would be a totally inadequate reward, and it was decided to appoint a representative to approach the Dean and Faculty of the College, with a view to obtaining a more public recognition of his services.

The College yell was then sung in unison and the meeting terminated in the traditional manner with the destruction of the electric light bulbs, and the emptying of the official inkpot over the only non-official member.

The Class marched out to the stairs of the Ukelele Lady ably rendered by the Senior Musical Representative.

MR. FITZ-GREEVES ON BRITISH GUIANA

On Sunday afternoon Nov. sixteenth, Mr. Fitz-Greeves of the Dept. of Science in Agriculture of Georger town, British Guiana gave an interesting address on life in that colony students and residents of St. Annes, in the Assembly Hall of the College. Mr. Fitz-Greeves is on a six months' tour of Canada, in order to get an insight into the canning industry. His speech at Mac. was the first he has given in Canada.

Mr. Fitz-Greeves opened his address by a short discripton of British Guiana. He said, in passing, that the knowledge of many Canadians regarding this country was deplorable. He claimed, for example, that he had heard the name British Guiana pronounced in five different ways, each of which was incorrect.

Mr. Fitz-Greeves depicted British Guiana as a land of great possibilities. Her diamond, gold, and aluminum mins rank high in productiveness. He pointed out, that with modern appliances and machinery, these mines could be made a valuable asset to the colony, and that the diamond output of British Guiana would be sufficient to supply the world for a considerable period of time.

Guiana was described as a flat, level land five feet below the level of the sea where dykes were necessary to keep out the water. "The chief means of transportation", said Mr. Fitz-Greeves "is by means of water Rivers abound in the colony. In fact there is only one modernly constructed road in the whole of British Guiana. Furthermore there are only one hundred miles of railroad at a distance of a couple of miles from the coast, a fact which is unknown to most Canadians. A schemo is now on foot to build a railroad through the colony to connect with the Brazil ra' way line. This plan, if carried out, will greatly benefit the colony."

In speaking of education, Mr. Fitz-Greeves expressed much dissatisfaction as regards the present educational system of British Guiana. There were no universites in the colony, he said, and men desiring a university education were forced to leave the country and go elsewhere. "The primary schools, however, have an ambitious curriculum", said Mr. Fitz-Greeves "although their success is somewhat doubtful.

Mr. Fitz-Greeves concluded his interesting address by a few well-chosen words of advice to the students. He said that in his opinion the three words "observaton", "education", "perseverance", were the three landmarks of success.

ADDITIONAL DOINGS

What joy and satisfaction it is to know that all our wants are to be supplied for the rest of the year! Of course, we mean in the shape of potatoes and apples. That is the result of the barn fire. It has had many other interesting results but the dietician won't let us tell you yet. She is keeping it up her sleeve as a pleasant surprise.

Now that we come to think of it the title "additional doings" was a bit of bluff. There have been very few doings, additional or otherwise, around the Campus for a long time. The boys over in the Men's Residence are still playing "I miss my bliss." The girls are still cooking, teaching, sewing and talking scandal.....but raising none. The staff is still waiting for some one to pick on. Decidedly the studes of this year were either raised in Westmount or caught the malady from that burg before they came.

PUBLIC CORDIALLY INVITED

BASKETBALL

ATHLETES ARE NOW TURNING TO BASKETBALL

Now that the rugby season is over the University's athletes are turning their attention to basketball. Along with rugby, basketball rates as a major sport and attracts a goodly number of students each year. When the call was first made for basketballers to represent McGill in the Intercollegiate Union and the city league, about eighty aspirants turned up. Of course the coach could not use them all and finally by a process of elimination he has worked his squad down to about twenty men. These include for the most part experienced men who at some time or other played on one of the McGill teams. There are however several newcomers who look like real finds. Groseman, a freshman is showing some real good form and bids fair to clinch a place on the senior team. "Tiny" Sullivan who as freshman played senior rugby is also turning out for basketball. He stands out head and shoulders above the rest of the team and should prove a real find for centre position. Sullivan is an experienced basketball player having previously played with the M.A.A.A. Among the veterans who are turning out with the basketball squad is Enol Amaron. Amaron was captain of the senior team two years ago. His position is on the defence and he makes a very good defence man. Captain Stan Quackenbush will very likely be the other defence man on the team. Blumenstein, also of last year's team is working hard to clinch a place on the team. He is a steady player and has lots of weight. In all probability the forward line will be an entirely new one. Several prospects are working hard for forward positions. Groseman, Rider and Rafalovitch are all showing good form and should all make good forwards. Sullivan by reason of his height and reach should prove a real find as far as a centre is concerned.

The Intermediates

The Intermediates look like a real championship team. they pass the ball around like old timers and invariably find the basket when they shoot. Loomis who played stellar basketball for the intermediates last year will again be on the intermediate line-up. The only reason for his not playing in senior company is on account of academic pressure. Silverman also of last years intermediate "A" is again trying for a place on the team. Johnson who captained last year's intermediate "B" is showing some fine basketball and should prove a valuable asset to the team. Covshoff of last year's intermediate "B" is working hard to place on the team. Stattner also of last year's intermediate "B" showed up well in the scrimmages and should make a place on the forward line. Dubrofsky who played for Central Y.M.C.A. is showing some aggresive basketball and looked good in the practises.

Both the intermediates and seniors worked hard in the practises. Coach Van Wagner started them off with some light passing and shooting. everybody seemed to have caught on to the art of placing the ball in the basket and a miss was the exception not the rule. The coach then gave the squad a short talk explaining some of the finer points of the game and pointing out to them mistakes that they should avoid. He then put them through some hard scrimmages and made them work their utmost.

Both the senior and intermediate teams are scheduled to play an exhibition games against the Y.M.H.A. a week from to-day. The game is of utmost importance as it should give the coach a good idea as to the strength of his teams.

Class Basketball

Class basketball always interests a large number of students. This year especially the interclass basketball league should be highly successful. McGill is only entering two competitive teams this year and a lot of material should be available for the class teams. The Interclass basketball league consists of two sections, the freshman and sophomore sections. The freshman years will play against each other and the winner against the winners of the sophomore section. All the classes are entering strong teams and the competition should prove interesting and exciting. practises are held every day.

Science '29

Science '29 had a strenuous workout last night, in preparation with their game on Monday against Commerce '29. A full turn-out of aspirants, exhibiting the same enthusiatic spirit as shown by their predecessors, who won the Inter-Faculty Basketball Championship. Although not as heavy a team as last year's, they are showing up as a fast and snappy group of basketballers. The team will be chosen from the following: Walker, Montgomery, Doherty, Beatty, Springings, Sissons, Neville, Jones, Griffiths, Moore.

Medicine '30

A goodly number of aspirants were in evidence at the first Medicine '30 Basketball practice yesterday afternoon at Molson Hall. Especially prominent in the workout were Brotman, Osborne, Cullen, Daly, Green, Abramovitch, Paul, and Manager Cole predicts stiff opposition for Law '28 when they meet next Wednesday.

Commerce '29

There was a fair attendance at the Commerce '29 Basketball practice yesterday afternoon. Manager Cudlip had his men going at top speed, and some promising material was in evidence, Burke, Wright, and Stockwell showing up especially well. The Commercials will show their wares against Science '29 on Monday next.

Practices are called for every Tuesday and Friday, 4 p.m., at Molson Hall and any Commerce Freshman interested in making the team, whether experienced in basketball or not, is urged to turn out.

FINAL RESULTS OF SCARLET KEY IN

Heavy Poll in Science—Medicine had Separate Election

The final and official results of the Scarlet Key Society elections was given out last night. Delayed by what one might term a Bye-election the results could not be had at an earlier date. Science showed the most interest in the elections, about 75 per cent of the students using their right to vote. Arts comes next where about 40 per cent of the students voted. The other faculties showed very little interest in the matter and only a few turned out to vote. This was especially true of Medicine where the laxity in voting on the day set for the elections necessiated another election. Law and Dentistry returned their candidates by acclamation.

The following are the official results:—

Law ——by acclamation
Van Velet
J. G. Ponteous

Dentistry ——by acclamation
McMahan
Voisard
Robinson

Arts —— seven nominations
Leslie (133)
Gammell (122)
Davidson (120)
Millen (95)

Science —— five nominations
Burland (233)
Giles (202)
James (...)
Stuart (185)

Commerce —— five nominations
N. Gordon
J. Little
J. Ross
H. B. Leburon

Medicine —— nine nominations
Allan Blair
W. F. Dunn
Jack Wright
R. S. Woodruff

TUX TALK

First dance program: Let's go out in the hall and have a drink.

Second Dance Program: No thanks, I'm full already.

Bow tie: What have you been doing all night?

Wing collar: Not much with you hanging round.

Tux shirt: I'd have a great time tonight if those suspenders didn't cramp my style.

Joe suspender: You big stiff, I'm upholding up your reputation, if I didn't stretch a point I'll leave you flat!

Front collar button: Would you like some cider?

Back collar button: I sure would. I'm choking to death.

Front collar button: Well, get around under this Adam's apple, and when I squeeze it you take a drink.

Right satin lapel: What'd they leave you tonight?

Left satin lapel: Just some cheap powder, and a lonely drop o'gin.

Right patent leather: That baby he has with him tonight is sure treating me rough.

Left hoofer: Every time she steps on you, I'll kick her to get even.

He: Turn him down?

She: No, those are my roommate's shoes.

DOINGS AT MACDONALD

Armistice Day was uneventful. In the morning the girls sold poppies, but didn't have nearly enough to supply the demand, so that many of us had to go without. At eleven o'clock there were two minutes of silence during which all work and bustle ceased, the whistle blowing at the beginning and end of the period.

These two minutes of prayer, which are observed the world over, is rather a wonderful tribute to the brave men who gave their lives for the sake of humanity; and the fact that it has been observed for so long shews that we do not intend to forget what they did for us.

The weather out here is abominable these days but quite seasonable for November. Up towards the tracks the ruins of the barn stand out bare and blackened against the sky, and make things more desolate than ever — quite like what one imagines Flander's Fields would be like.

On Thursday evening there was a meeting of the whole student body in the Assembly Hall, and it was decided to hold a dance on February 10th — Founder's Day — instead of an entertainment. Who wants an ordinary entertainment when one can be had in the shape of a dance?

Oh! those heathenish teachers who won't go to Religious Instruction — now they're going to pay up for their past sins and misdemeanours! Rumour has it that the Dean has promised them — well we're not telling — and that he is going to put it into effect immediately, if not sooner. We hereby issue warning advising them to mend their ways.

Ground Hockey is now in full swing. The girls have been practising for some time and a game was arranged with the Physical Eds. of McGill to take place on the 14th. The weather was so nasty however that the game was called off, which was just as well because the poor players would still be scraping mud off themselves.

On Friday evening The Play Reading Club gave us one of Sheridan's delightful plays. It was well done and occasioned lots of laughter on the part of everyone. The Reception Room, where they usually hold their meetings, was so overcrowded, and the people in it as resembled sardines that the scene of action was transferred to the Foyer. There, amid a noise and clatter from the kitchen which reminded us of Child's at a rush hour, we listened to the play.

On Saturday afternoon the gumsiicers from Dentistry came out for a game of rugby and ran up the highest tally. It was a great rough-and-tumble despite the weather; and if they mend their future patients teeth the way they play football, heaven help their patients!

The McGill team (which was the largest team on record) stayed to supper at the College and went to the Dance afterwards. Their efforts combined with those of the Short Course students and the other Aggies, made it one of the most successful Saturday night dances on record.

PLAY READING AT MAC A SUCCESS

On Friday November 13th the Play Reading Society of Macdonald College produced, before a very appreciative audience, "St. Patrick's Day or The Scheming Lieutenant" by Sheridan. It was originally intended to stage the play in one of the reception rooms of the Women's Residence, but such a large number turned up that it was transferred, at the last moment, to the Foyer outside the dining room.

The piece lasted almost an hour, and a short resume was given at the beginning of each scene by Miss Parker the president of the Play Reading Club, who was responsible for the general stage management.

The plot deals with the artifices employed by a scheming Lieutenant to win the consent of a peppery Justice of the Peace to his bethrothal to his fascinating daughter. The Justice does not see eye to eye with him, but is finally persuaded to agree due to the machinations of the Lieutenant, aided by a rather wordy Doctor who spends his time moralizing and taking snuff.

The majority of the male characters, with the exception of Justice Credulous, were played by members of the 1925 Winter Course in Agriculture, most of whom were making their initial appearance on the stage.

Under these circumstances the performance was a very creditable one to all concerned and was well received by the large and appreciative student body who collected in the Foyer. Special mention is due to Mr. MacMaster for the vigour of his interpretation of the character of Justice Credulous.

second coil be placed at right angles to both the first coil and the direction of the moving electrons, carrying an alternating current, a sinesoidal curve will be traced out upon the stationary photographic plate. If the electrons be subjected to the action of an electrostatic field a deflection will occur in the sinesoidal curve which permits measurement of the duration of the electrostatic field. This method is limited by both the sweeping motion of the electrons and the frequency of the alternating current. Time intervals of the order of 1 x 10-8 second can be measured by this method. The principle of this method is used in measuring disturbanced on transmission lines particularly atmospheric disturbances one-exposure of the plate is sufficient to give a satisfactory exposure, for as Prof Heyman has worked it out. If there is a current of two milliomperes i.e. 14 x 10-16 electrons 10-11 of these electrons will pass through the hole in the anode and this is a sufficient number to render one exposure satisfactory.

In the second method the one which makes use of Lichtenberg's figures, a charged condenser is placed in a circuit with a spark gap. Leads are taken off which go to a photographic plate arranged in a small condenser. This will give a Lichtenberg figure on discharging the condenser. If now two electrodes are substituted for one of the former ones and the electric paths are of the same length, the two Lichenberg figures will start at the same time and meet in a line half way between them. If the lead to one electrode is longer than that to the other, there will be a slight retardation and the meeing line will be shifted towards the retarded electrode. A very small difference in time will give quite a shift in the meeting line.

In this way difference of time corresponding to the time necessary for a dielectric wave to pass over two centimetres may be measured to 6.7 x 10-11 seconds.

This same method may be used to measure the dielectric constants of iquids and of some solids by lengthening the second electric path until the meeting line regains its original position half way between the two figures and applying the proper formula.

This method is also applicable to measurements dealing with the time of duration of a spark and the time of duration of atmospheric disturbances along transmission lines.

In closing Prof. Heymans gave the following interesting illustrations of this very short interval of time 6.7 x 10-11 seconds is to one second as one second is to 23,000 years, and 6.7 x 10-11 second is to one second as one hour is to 83 million years.

LOVE COMES AGAIN

(By Dorothy Dow)

The violins grow faint: the music fades.
The white form glows and dims within the shades.
The red mouth gleams and burns

A thousand flowers in a thousand urns
Confuse the night with perfume Love returns
On rosy noiseless feet.

And kisses in the dark are bittersweet
And stolen hours fair and frail and fleet....
And love's a little moment, safe from pain,
That comes and goes and goes and comes again!

If you are so close to this you can read it you may have a collision with an idea.

Le Petit Parisien

Dear Monsieur McGill Daily:—

You may think I am finish with sport—but—par ma bouche—I will do anything to get away from jim class—so I go for to see and partake of swimming class, and, if I can, get some practice in water polo.

So I set forth to go to Monsieur Night of Columbus' Hall and I am so happy I whistle all ze way. When I get there I enquire of butler which is dressed like Prince of Wales, where is dressing room for McGill swimmers, and he show me. I go right through to manager and tell him I wish to join in swim, and he say "good stuff, take off your duds here."

So apres un quart d'heure I arrive on border of tank with new bathing suit on—my! it is peach of bathing suit,—it is blue with red around ze sides and bottom, and picture of white boat on chest.

And I look around me and sang! crush! what a sight. I see thirteen—fourteen—feefteen great big mighty huge enormous fellows which look like elephants who lost their trunks in fight. Then one of them jump in water, and splash! He make noise like rumble of cannons, and he sent ze water all over ze room, and drops which fall on me make me shiver. Then another one he make big dive in and send one more ton of water over ze room. And then they sport around in water and duck each other but I one man throw in a ball, and they play with that.

Then one man accost me and say "What for you have bathing suit on. We do not have ze ladies call here." So—well, I blush to say what I do.

Then I come back to ze bath, and ze biggest man of all say to me "Can you swim?" And I reply "A little bit I think."

So he pick me up WITH ONE HAND, and throw me in ze water, and I have to struggle back. I am nearly scare out of my life.

And after I am out I get up and run to showers and stay there and shiver for one half hour. And as I go out one fellow ask me "do you wish for jim attendances?" And I say "oh yes, kind sir, will you be so kind as to give me forty?" but he only gave one to your affectionate friend,

PHARMACISTS TO HOLD A DEBATE

On the Protected Articles Trade Association

At the next general meeting of the Pharmaceutical Society which is to take place on Wed. Nov. 25th in the New. Med. Bldg., a very interesting debate will be held. The subject is of particular interest to the Pharmacists at the present time, since Sir W. Glynn Jones has been brought out from England to organize a P. A. T. A. in this country.

The Protected Articles Trade Association to give its full cognomen, is an organization which has the full support of all Manufacturing and Retail Druggists. Its duty is to fix the Retail Prices for all Patent Medicines. This step it is hoped will set a new standard for Pharmacy and stop the cut-throat methods of the Chain Drug Store.

Prof. A. E. J. Moon will occupy the chair during the debate and the decision will be rendered by popular vote.

At the meeting which will precede the debate, Class representatives will be appointed for the year. The election of the Sports Manager will take place and plans will be made for the "Pharmacy Informal Dance." Smokes and Refreshments will be supplied.

STRANGE WHAT'S

Jones was a skeptic. When the cross-word puzzle craze invaded the city he sneered and scoffed. He watched his friends, relatives, wife and children lose control of themselves and join in the pursuit of the elusive word, and still he sneered and scoffed. Then one day he decided to try one of the fool things himself, just to see what it was all about. He did, and as a result he became, strange as it may seem to the readers of the daily comic strips, more opposed to the fad than ever before.

EVERYBODY

Tickets are now on sale at the Tuck Shop for the pre-Christmas production of the McGill Players' Club. Three performances will be given; Thurs., Fri. and Sat., December 3, 4 and 5. "All Gummed Up", "The Man in the Stalls", and "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets" are the three to be produced. The three will be presented at each performance. Tickets are seventy-five cents each. Only one hundred tickets are available for each performance.

JUNIORS

All Juniors must complete and hand in their biographies to the class representatives immediately.

ARTS '26

Will any members of the class who desire pictures please give their names to the Class Secretary at once.

TO LET

In Union, double room. 25 dollars a month. Apply at Secretary's office.

COMMERCE '28

A meeting of the class Debating team will shortly be held to discuss plans for the coming Freshman-Sophomore debates, and all men desirous of competing are asked to get in touch with G. Nelles.

CERCLE FRANCAIS

The next meeting of the Cercle will be held Monday, Nov. 23rd in the Union. The debate which was scheduled for the last meeting will be held at this one.

CLASS PRESIDENTS

Class presidents are requested to appoint a member of their class to assist in the Federated Charities. Representatives will please call West. 0594.

NOTICE

Collectors for the Federated Charities are requested to report, and to obtain necessary supplies from Brierley, who will be in the Daily office from five to six daily.

USHERS AND GROUNDSMEN

The following men who acted as head ushers and groundsmen at the football games will please call at Maj. Forbes' office and receive their pay:

Ball, J. C., Lojoie R., Lockead, J., Wall, J. J., Rockwell, C., Hammond, W., McKenna, L., McLeod, Lough, H., Burtin, F., Ross, A., Snow, W. A., Blackler, C., Green, J., Brown, Henry, Robertson, M.

F. SECORD,
Pres. M.W.S.A.A.

L. ARGUE,
Pres. R.V.C. Undergraduate Society.

NEW MEN WANTED FOR WRESTLING

Wrestling is progressing favourably in spite of the awkward hours and the fact that boxing takes place in Strathcona Hall at the same time.

Greenberg, the wrestling representative is trying to arrange better hours, with the fencing club and next week will probably have arrived at some arrangement in this respect.

New men are wanted for the heavy and light-heavyweight clases. There is an excellent change for those who turn-out. Wrestling is an important event in the Intercollegiate tournament there being a possible 8 points to be gained.

Coach Smith's oral method is working very well, but he needs a few newcomers.

Who was the straightest man of Bible time?

Ans: Joseph, because the Pharaoh made a ruler out of him.

A WOMEN'S MAN

Roused perhaps by "Oxford bags", a British lady whose native tact causes her to remain anonymous has recently undertaken the brobdingnagian task of reforming man's dress. She seems to have begun with the idea of how uncomfortable the poor dears must be in stiff collars, boiled shirts, dragging trousers, "kidney-exposing waistcoat," and everything else that makes the male a pleasing object, at least to himself; and ends with the suggestion that, dicarding all such modifications of the strait-jacket, men attire themselves in gaudy jumper blouses, short fur coats, bright colored pajamas and shoes of vivid leathers. The desideratum suggests nothing so much as a musical comedy's presentation of a street scene in Russia.

Granted that the most uncomfortable and absurd costume in the world is evening dress, the men can still afford to retort: "Isn't that just like a woman?" This misguided Englishwoman proceeds on the absurd promise that people want to dress comfortably. If comfort were the prime object of top hats and stiff shirts, they would give place at once to loin cloths and beads. Ever since garments have risen to the dignity of clothes, they have been ornaments first, and conveniences second; and if they fail in their first function, modern men can console themselves with the reflection that men in general would be still homelier in a state of nature. clothes, whether of starched linen or silk padded with bran are the masculine defense against exposure as a two-legged animal without feathers; and so long as one can keep the skeleton in a more or less endurable closet, innovations looking to the trifling detail of comfort will always meet with a cold reception.

PROBABLY RIGHT

One evening Clarence came into the parlor and asked her father for two matches. Now the oldcommodore was a careful man and before complying with the request, he asked "What are you going to do with the matches Clarence? You know you are not of age as yet."

"Oh yes, Father" replied Clarence "I'l be very careful. I simply wanted the matches to ascertain whether or not there was any gasoline in the car before I took it out."

'That is a capital idea,' said the father, "I have been worrying about that very matter myself." With that he placed two new matches in the youth's eager hand.

The boy ran from the house and out to the car. The father sat smoking and gazing off into space. "I wonder if there really is plenty of gas in that car?" He was talking to himself. "Let me see now, here should be some the tank was—"

His thoughts were interrupted by a rather huge BOOM! accompanied by the splintering of wood.

"Ah yes", smiled the old gentleman, as he closed his eyes restfully. "there certainly must have been."

MONOLOGUE

By The Spirit of Mah Jongg

Regard me: I am but a wraith
Of my once-blooming self;
Men held me in a throbbing faith,
And now I grace the shelf.

The Van de Puysters feted me
(I sold at thousands per)—
The town wits loosed some choice esprit
Anent the vivid stir

I made in all the social world.
Resplendent was my reign!
And then, how swiftly I was hurled
Into the dust. What pain

Was mine when they held bargain sales
To clear me at half cost!
But no one heard my sobs and wails,
And here I wander, lost . . .

Oh, sister-fads, the public taste
Is no fine wheat but chaff:
Corrupted, foul, deproved, debased—
And that's not telling half.

Each one of you will die as I,
Because you've been outworn;
And when you breathe your final sigh
You'll wish you'd not been born.

This is your only ray of light,
Your only hope for bliss—
To join the cast off dead and write
A tragic pome like this.

LISTENING IN

The first time I met George he was extremely mysterious and fascinating. He was extremely polite and chatty, but never said anything about himself. And when I dated with him a few evenings later I insisted on staying at home in the parlor—so I'd have a chance to figure him out.

Well, the way he dressed I thought he was a college man.

The intelligent manner in which he discussed the European situation made me thing he was a diplomat.

If I'd have judged him by the brand of cigarette he smoked I'd have taken him for a roof-garden high-roller.

He held my hand, and did it well; so well that I felt sure he was a card sharp.

He made love to me, too, and then I was certain that he was a movie actor.

When I told him a joke that Daddy had told me I took him for an Englishman.

But when he got through telling me stories I knew he was a—
